History

The American Sociological Society was organized at Baltimore in 1905. Annual meetings have been as follows: at Providence, R.I. (1906), Madison, Wis. (1907), Atlantic City, N.J. (1908), New York City (1909), St. Louis, Mo. (1910), Washington, D.C. (1911). The meeting in 1912 will be held in Boston and Cambridge, Mass.

Purposes

The society owes its existence to the conviction of its founders and present members, who now number between four and five hundred, that the Sociologists of this country—whether engaged chiefly in research, in teaching, or in the study of specific problems of social amelioration—should have an opportunity to meet regularly for the discussion of subjects of common interest. The meetings thus far have proved of great value by furthering the unification of sociological theory, by increasing knowledge of particular problems, and by bringing members of the Society into personal relations with one another.
